

PLANS COMPLETED FOR ENTERTAINMENT OF PRINCE LOUIS OF BATTENBERG

BOB EVANS WILL BE MASTER OF CEREMONIES

Fleet Leaves to Meet Visitor October 31.

OFFICERS WORRIED ABOUT EXPENSE OF ENTERTAINMENT

New York, Oct. 26.—The North Atlantic fleet, under Rear Admiral Robert Evans, which is to entertain the British fleet under Prince Louis of Battenberg, will go to Annapolis from Hampton Roads on October 31. The British fleet is scheduled to reach there the following day. Then will follow receptions to the guests, dinners in their honor and a football game between the cadet teams. While the fleets are lying off Annapolis, Prince Louis and his officers will go to Washington to be received by the president.

The further program, as announced from the flagship Maine last evening, contemplates the departure of the battleship fleet from Annapolis on November 8, the vessels arriving here early the following day. Escorted by Rear Admiral Branson's division of four armored cruisers, the British squadron will leave Annapolis on November 8, arriving here the next morning, the 9th being the king's birthday.

There will be considerable gunpowder expended as the visitors make their way up the bay to their appointed berth in the North river. There will be the national salute of twenty-one guns from the Drake, as she approaches Governor's Island, which will be answered by an equal number from the saluting battery of the post.

Then, as the Drake nears the North river anchorage, the flag of Rear Admiral Evans flying from the battleship Maine will be saluted with thirteen guns in honor of the admiral's flag which Prince Louis flies on the Drake. All of our ships will be dressed with flags, and that night they will be illuminated with electric lights.

When the visiting fleet and its court of armored cruisers have joined the battleship fleet in the North river that waterway will hold the most powerful armada that ever rode upon it. The seventeen vessels will be anchored at 400 yard intervals, the long line stretching from Twenty-third to 125th street.

On the day following her arrival here the Drake will quit her berth in the stream and move to the Concord pier, where she will remain through the end of her stay in port. This is for greater convenience in receiving guests.

Naval officers were interested in the news published this morning that one thousand dollars had been allowed Rear Admiral Evans for entertainment purposes. None of this, according to precedent, may be spent for cigars and wine. It is the opinion in Washington that the officers and men of the fleet should not be subjected to the expense of this exchange of courtesies, for the event is regarded as one of national importance rather than personal pleasure.

Congress has been liberal in providing for the navy in many ways, but the fear of criticism from temperance quarters has apparently been an alibi for any effort for an entertainment fund. The money that American officers have spent in the past ten years in entertainment as an official duty would aggregate several thousands of dollars.

In the British and other navies regular provision is made for entertaining. A British admiral's table money, if he commands an important squadron, is as much as his pay. At the end of the year, if he has not expended it all, the sum remains to be turned back into the treasury.

Many of the younger officers in the service can ill afford to make the required outlay. Their pay is small, and a contribution to the entertainment fund makes rigid economy necessary somewhere else. Every officer has a family to support and must think when at sea to save something against the time of shore duty, for an arbitrary law limits the pay of officers on shore duty to 15 per cent less than their sea pay, although the expense of living ashore is steadily increasing.

There is a fund in the state department which can be allotted for the purpose of entertaining, if necessary.

TO DEVISE MEANS TO CARE FOR HEALTHSEEKERS

MEETING WILL BE HELD THIS AFTERNOON AT COMMERCIAL CLUB BUILDING.

A meeting will be held at the Workmen's club rooms in the Commercial club building at 2 o'clock this afternoon under the auspices of the Sisters of Charity who conduct St. Joseph's sanitarium in this city. Every one who is interested in all in charitable work is urged to be present. The object of the meeting is to devise ways and means to care for the many invalids who are daily arriving in Albuquerque in search of health and who have not the means to secure the treatment which is necessary to save their lives and restore them to health. The need is most urgent that something should be done to care for this class of poor healthseekers who are arriving in increasing numbers all the time, and many of whom die here because of lack of money to secure proper treatment.

The movement is a most worthy one and everyone who is charitably inclined should be present.

Fined for Carrying Weapons.
Deputy Sheriff Sena arrested Remigio Sillar near Las Vegas Wednesday morning for carrying concealed weapons, and it cost him the sum of fifty-nine dollars to be freed from the clutches of the law. Sillar wore a big six-shooter in his belt when he was arrested. He was taken before Justice of Peace Otero and pleaded guilty and was given the minimum fine of fifty dollars and costs. Hereafter he will probably wear a less expensive ornament.—Las Vegas Optic.

DISCIPLINE IS THE SECRET OF JAPANESE SUCCESS

Common Soldiers Never Disobey an Order.

MEDICAL SERVICE THE MOST PERFECT ON EARTH

Washington, Oct. 26.—Surgeon William C. Braisted of the navy has made an interesting report of his observations of the medical service of the Japanese navy during the recent war in the far east. He says that the Japanese, in building up their medical service have drawn largely from the Germans, to some extent from the British and French, and much less from the Americans. The people are intensely patriotic. Unparalleled discipline exists in the army and navy. Their soldiers are made of obedience. If men are told not to drink they do not; if they are told by their officers to take care of their bodies, they do so. Their selection of food, they follow implicitly their instructions. This accounts for the freedom from disease caused by encephalitis, added to which the Japanese have the advantage of possessing a national characteristic of cleanliness.

Officers of Superior Intelligence.
At the head of the affairs of the nation are men of superior intelligence and education. Again it is recalled that for nearly ten years the Japanese have been preparing for the struggle, drilling, organizing, studying, planning and gathering stores in large numbers against the war which was in preparation to come with the result of the preparation that "things move on in Japan almost as smoothly as though there were no war going on." Surgeon Braisted continues:

They have the method of enlistment by conscription, but this is supplemented by a most rigid physical examination, and no weak or impaired person is allowed. Thus they start with forces in perfect health, with a personnel not tall, but strong, sturdy, intelligent and active, men who are accustomed to live by luxuries, who have always lived mostly in the open air, whose bodies have not been undermined by alcohol, excess, and quiet in demeanor, but determined, active and capable. These are the circumstances which have added so materially to the wonderful campaigns of the Japanese.

Americans Can Learn Obedience.
"What then, can we of the navy learn from the Japanese in the present war?" First, the most important, discipline and unwavering obedience to instructions. The Japanese officer, as a rule, commands the respect of his men; they look up to him and follow his orders. The Japanese officer is dignified, but approachable, and his demeanor toward his inferiors is kind, tolerant and interested.

The Japanese recruit is, as a rule, bright, intelligent and loyal, but extremely difficult to control, especially in matters affecting his own person. He delights in doing all sorts of daring tricks that only he can do, and he will drink water from almost any source, a ditch or a wayside well; he delights to forage and commits all sorts of intestinal excesses and errors. In these things he is a law unto himself, and only long training and experience tend to change this aspect of his character.

The Hospitals Compared.
There is but little else that we can learn at this time from the Japanese. Their hospitals are good for Japan, but fitted for the care of Japanese only. Their institutions would not be at all satisfactory to our people, nor indeed could they be compared in any way with the beautiful and efficient hospitals that are so marked a feature of almost every city and state. They are especially fond of surgery, but it is largely emergency surgery. They are gaining much experience and have much practice during this war, but there is little of what we look upon as higher surgery. Abdominal surgery does not flourish; there is but little of it being undertaken.

The Medical Corps of the Japanese.
The medical corps of the Japanese navy probably excel us in pathology and bacteriology. They always have at each institution, extensive, well equipped and actively working laboratories. They take much interest in the work, and it is easy to predict marked success shortly in experimental work of this character.

NOW AFTER THE EXTRACTS WHICH CARRY BOOZE

Commissioner Yerkes Has Caused Big Commotion.

CANTEEN QUESTION WILL SOON BE LIVE ISSUE

Washington, Oct. 26.—Commissioner Yerkes, after giving patent medicines with whiskey as their chief ingredient a severe blow, has turned his attention to so-called essence compounds called "essence of lemon, vanilla, cinnamon, etc." or tinctures or essences of ginger, are made for sale in prohibition districts as beverages, every merchant selling them without obtaining the necessary special tax stamp as a liquor dealer under the internal revenue laws is subject to criminal prosecution as well as to a assessment of special tax and penalty, and the manufacturers of these compounds are involved in the same liability, and also in liability as rectifiers.

It is stated by officials of the internal revenue bureau that prohibition communities throughout the country consume an enormous amount of these alleged essences of ginger, lemon, vanilla and cinnamon, and quantities of it have been sold by country merchants and others as "flavoring extracts." According to the information in the hands of the internal revenue bureau, the sale of these essences in some communities in our day to have flourished in five years. As there was no internal revenue tax on these essences, the "essence" proceeded to increase the quantity of whiskey in this stuff, with the result that many of them contained more than 50 per cent of pure alcohol. The goods had no sale outside the prohibition districts.

Great Fight in Congress.
This action of Commissioner Yerkes, together with his action concerning patent medicines containing large amounts of alcohol, promises to lead to the greatest fight on the whiskey question ever known at the coming session of congress. An attempt will be made to impose a tax on all such articles according to the amount of alcohol they contain, unless scientific officials of the government declare them to be of medicinal value. The legitimate whiskey interests of the country are also opposed to the leniency with which the patent medicine people, that is those making whiskey medicines have been treated.

The prohibitionists are somewhat dumfounded at the revelations that in communities where they thought the people were absolutely deprived of alcoholic spirits there has been an enormous consumption of essences that were really nothing but whiskey, water and a little flavoring, and of patent medicines that they would be by the use of their own hands, 25 per cent of whiskey. In South Carolina, where there is a hot prohibition fight, the state dispensary authorities have sprung on the druggists an official analysis showing that many of these medicines and compounds were nearly all whiskey, and have required that they be sold on prescriptions of reputable physicians. In Kansas, the Indian Territory, Tennessee, Georgia, Arkansas and other states with option laws and "dry" counties, thousands have been paid out for these alleged essences and patent medicines.

The Canteen Question.
But the fight will not be wholly along these lines. The proposed restoration of the canteen in the army and the proposed prohibition in the Indian Territory when it is admitted as a state with Oklahoma, will make up for settlement. Practically every prominent army officer, in annual reports to the secretary of war, has declared that the absence of the canteen, selling beer and light drinks under the supervision of army officers, has resulted in a lower moral standard for the soldiers. General Fred D. Grant and all commanders of posts assert that the sale of beer and light wines promoted temperance in the army and kept the soldiers within barracks where now they go outside and get into the worst of company and drink the worst of low drinks. The W. C. T. U. organizations are lining up to oppose the re-establishment of the canteen, and in some quarters the suggestion has been made that a rival organization of ladies be established to advocate the canteen strictly as a moral and temperance measure. The influence of the W. C. T. U. in congress is expected to be great, but against that influence will be the recommendation of practically every officer of the army and probably of the secretary of war and other high officials.

TERRITORIALISMS

The Ethnological club of Las Vegas is flourishing.

The public schools of Clarendon opened last week with fifty pupils in attendance.

A Baptist church has been started at Blackwater, Roosevelt county, with thirty-five members.

The Ladies' Cemetery association, of Roswell, is to give a carnival at Carlsbad, rather incongruous.

The best sugar factory at Glendale in the salt river valley will be completed and ready in time to work up the coming season's best crop.

Editor Disappears.
Benton Schallenbarger, who has been the editor of the Clarendon Silver Lining for several months, has left that town for parts unknown.

Carlsbad Mohair.
A special on the P. V. & N. E. going north Monday night run into a bunch of cattle just out of Lakewood, some of the animals were very tame and a train for a wonder was not derailed.

By the Carlsbad Route.
Mrs. Maggie Thompson committed suicide on Saturday evening at the home of her brother-in-law, Ralph Wilson, living immediately north of the brickyard at Alhambra, near Phoenix, by taking carbolic acid.

Pine Music.
The music of the hammer and saw is being heard all over Carlsbad these days, the work only being restricted by the number of carpenters. We understand some thirty or more residences will be built in the next few weeks.—Carlsbad Current.

Varsity Beats Tombstone.
Cheered up by the "rain-runs" of strong lunked boys on our side and by noisier, but nonetheless enthusiastic co-eds on the other, the speedy lads from the University of Arizona tore through Tombstone's lineup for three touchdowns in the football game at Tucson last week.—Tucson Citizen.

New Building at Artesia.
The Ullery Furniture Co., with stores at Artesia, Roswell and Carlsbad, let the contract on Monday of this week to Messrs. Bond & Philman, of Beaumont, Texas, for the erection of a brick business house on Main street, Artesia. The house will be on the lots west of the Bank of Artesia, one story, 48x75 feet, work to begin immediately.—Artesia Advocate.

The Poor People.
We are unable to see that any good can come of a discussion of the joint-statedhood proposal by Hon. J. F. Wilson and Colonel Allen T. Bird. The people of Arizona are against joint-statedhood and that is all that can be said about it. We know, of course, that Wilson and Bird are attractive orators, and that neither fears his own voice; but the people have some rights in the premises. Why should they be unnecessarily afflicted.—Tucson People.

They're Not Refused.
Samples of the new 120 gold certificates which have been recently issued by the government have been received here by the local banks. However, they are not being given out promiscuously nor in fact to anyone unless they have twenty good dollars to give in return for them. The new notes are yellow and are not unusually bright from the artistic standpoint. It is not thought that their lack of beauty will bring them into disfavor.—Tucson Citizen.

Don't Save Tempe.
At a meeting of the county supervisors at Phoenix it was decided to build a diversion dam at Tempe in order to save that town from destruction by future floods, as the torrents of last winter threatened its existence. The current worked but the south bank of the river at such a rapid rate that it would soon change its course through the town were it allowed to continue. The cost of the dam will be $12,000, the county to bear one-third of the expense, the Santa Fe and the Santa Fe and the Phoenix and Maricopa railroads to bear the other third. If the stream should change its course the railroad bridges would be over dry ground and the new one would have to be constructed.

Contest Case.
A contest case is being tried at the United States land office in Santa Fe. Ramon L. Baca, of Santa Fe, contended the claim for land in section 22, township 15 north, range 7 west, in Santa Fe county, made by Amado Chavez. The case in a complicated one and will take some time to settle. Yesterday afternoon arguments were being made and testimony taken but no action or settlement of any kind had been reached.

Examination for Forest Supervisor.
The examination for the position of forest supervisor, which was commenced Wednesday morning in the office of Forest Supervisor Leon F. Kneipp, was continued yesterday. The written examination will be completed today and the field examination will commence tomorrow and will probably take two or three days to complete. Those who presented themselves for this examination were T. D. Burns, of Tierra Amarilla, Rio Arriba county; George R. Bradford and J. H. Kinney, of Captain, Lincoln county; Frank Crandall, Santa Fe; Ross McMillan and Norton K. McMillan, of Socorro; George A. Peter, Amado, Chavez. The case in a complicated one and will take some time to settle. Yesterday afternoon arguments were being made and testimony taken but no action or settlement of any kind had been reached.
